

Alla Occasional Table

Philippe Starck

Alla is a sculpture, a beautiful decorative object, with a unique character and personality.

The functionality of Alla Occasional Table is very broad since it can be used as a sculpture, as a side table or even as a stool. The versatility of use is unique being a new design by Philippe Starck where two symmetrical pieces of ecological plywood are joined with the traditional “clavet” joint system, revived from the Middle Ages, which allows us to obtain a circular design, easy to repair and use during its useful life. With a single piece used symmetrically and joined with 3 wooden “clavets”, it is possible to create a surprising geometry of great visual strength.

Thanks to its different sizes and great versatility, Alla Occasional table brings refinement and originality to any environment.

It is a collection of side tables made of oak plywood. It is available in two different heights. It works as a multipurpose table for workspaces, waiting and lobby areas or residential use. It is a collection designed for the circular economy, with a minimal carbon footprint and designed so that all components are easily separable and recyclable at the end of their useful life.

ANDREU WORLD

Collection of occasional tables in oak plywood board. It is available in 3 different sizes that fit together. Notable for the constructive solution applied to provide more resistance, by means of two solid wood crossbeams that are fixed at the outer ends with "clavets", creating a mechanical fastening without the need for any type of accesorie.
